The October bulletin of the Scottish Rite has some interesting pictures of the four temples that El Paso Lodge No 120 A. F. & A. M., has occupied since its organization in 1854. The enhancement of real estate values in the business district in El Paso is shown in the price of $230,000 received for the propwas given to the blue lodge by a woman in 1867 for cemetery purposes, Elks Planning Minstrel.

Ell Paso Elks are planning a minstrel show to be given in the near future. Next Tuesday night at the regular meeting, exalted ruler Clyde F. Holmes will appoint a committee to arrange the details for the show. There is considerable dramatic talent

There is considerable dramatic talent in the local Eiks' lodge and the minstrel shows given in the past have always been a success. For several years no show has been given, but the spirit is being revived and it is expected that the event will be made an annual one hereafter.

CARNEGIE CATCHES SALMON IN SCOTLAND

London, England, Oct. 18.—The laird of Skibo is in doubt just now whether salmon fishing or golf is the greater sport. He has been having wonderful sport on his Highland estate with the salmon, and the Scotch salmon is about as game a fish as swims. Not only has Mr. Carnegie hooked and landed the largest salmon of the season, a 30-pounder, as has been told, but he has caught many smaller fish. One day he landed 16 beauties ranging in weight from eight to 20 pounds One day he landed 16 beauties ranging in weight from eight to 20 pounds and he enjoyed the sport hugely. He said with a laugh: "I think when I return to America I'll have to challenge my friend, Rockefeller, to a fishing contest. He may be able to beat me at goif, though I doubt it, but I am very sure that I can beat him with the rod. Fishing is a great sport. I can recall now the pleasure I found catching minnows with a bent pin when I was a boy, although until recently I had done little with the rod since then."

Highlands Benefit Daughter. Mr. Carnegie is very much pleased with the effect the bracing air of the highlands has had on the health of his little daughter. Margaret, whom the famous ironmaster fairly worships. the lamous frommaster fairly worships.

First Was of Logs, on Sandbank Near Present Elks' Home.

El Paso's first school house was a small frame building, near the present Elkks' club. El Paso's latest school houses are of the newest portable type. The first was small because the scholars were few. The last was made nuc-essary because there are so many schol-ars that the school buildings can hardars that the school buildings can hardly accommodate them. The pertable school houses will handle the overflow. The first school house was a little log structure on a sand bank that had about 50 pupils, and the new portable school houses will accommodate about 50 pupils, too, when they are finished and fixed up for work. Calvin Easterly, a West Point man, was the first superintendent of El Paso's public schools.

In 1884 the first brick school building, that now housedes the Elks club, was known as the Central achool. The consisted of Miss Mary I. Stanton, present teacher of the commercial depart-ment of the high school; Mrs. B. B. ment of the high school; Mrs. B. B. Bailey, who at that time was Miss Bessie Carnes; Miss Anna Moore, who has since married and lives in Globe, Aria; Mrs. C. R. Morehead, who was then Miss Mary Gates, and Mrs. J. W. Baines, the wife of the Baptist minister. The Baptist church stood where the Toltec club now stands. There were less than 200 pupils in the school.

Higher Grades Added.

As the children grew up, the high school grades were added, and eventually the high school work occupied the entire upper floor. With the increasing population, larger quarters were required, and an addition was built on the rear of the building. It was known as the central school. The built on the rear of the building. It was known as the central school. The Mesa, or Bailey school, was the next building to be erected, with the Franklin school the third. The present high school building was completed in 1901 and on Washington's birthday that year the high school left its crowded quarters in the Central school for its new building. The Central school was used until the building of the Lamar and San Jacinto schools in 1904 and 1905, when it was sold to the Elks' club, for a club house, and the children divided between the two new schools.

Tells Stories to 51 Children.

Mrs Edith Graham Coyne, public Hbrarian, began the weekly story hour for the younger school children at the illbrary Friday afternoon. The youngsters began coming almost an hour shead of time, and reminded the librarian about the story hour at frequent intervals. Mrs. Coyne told the stories of "The Golden Goose," "The Cat and the Parrot" and "Mother Holle." There were 51 youngsters in her audience and they were all very attentive.

After the story hour had passed,
seven little kiddies straggled in, who had been "kept after school." They were so grief stricken over missing the stories that Mrs. Coyne retold the "Cat and the Parrot" for thei respecial benefit. Mrs. Coyne will have a story hour every Friday at 3:30 oclock for the younger school children. The stories are told in the downstairs room of the Making Analyses of Foods. Making Analyses of Foods.

In an enlargement of the scientific work at the high school, food chemistry is being taken up by the classes in physiology and hygiene under Miss Ethel Talyor and Miss Lavert Chamberlin. The students have been making the classes of partitions coming analytical tests of potatoes, corn meal, flour, eggs and raisins for their proteid, starch and sugar value. During the coming week the class will experiment with digestive chemistry on these foods. The class is also making a study of the pure food laws, and the members are going on private inspection trips to see how many pure food ordinances are violated in El Paso. Sometime the latter part of the week the class will take the trip down the valley to the dairy and farm of the El Paso dairy.
